

SMITH BELIEVES PEOPLE WANT BEER, HE REPLIES TO U. S. SENATOR FESS

Suggests Congress Order Referendum in States and Fix Alcoholic Beverage Content at 2.75 Per Cent Which Many Doctors Say is Not Intoxicating.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, March 27.—Governor Smith believes a majority of the people of New York state favor an amendment to the Volstead act that will permit the use of light wines and beer of a small alcoholic content.

The governor expressed this opinion in a letter he sent today to United States Senator Simon D. Fess of Ohio who had taken exception to the action of the New York legislature in memorializing congress for a modification of the Volstead law.

The governor suggests that congress fix 2.75 percent as the maximum alcoholic content for beer and allow each state to fix the minimum by referendum.

"That surely is Democratic government," the governor wrote. "It is the voice of the people themselves and if that is not the essence of democracy, then we had better turn the key in the door and go out of business."

The governor's letter in part follows:

"The amendment asked is nothing more nor less than to define the term intoxicating beverages, as used in the eighteenth amendment in a way deemed by the legislature of the state of New York to be reasonable in order to permit the sale under stringent restrictions of beverages which, in point of fact, are deemed not intoxicating."

"Because the view of the legislature differs from your own, you write to me in comment upon the memorial that the sole issue is one of law enforcement with the distinct implication that the legislature is advocating the policy of non-enforcement of the law of the land."

"Speaking, I believe for the state which I have the honor to represent, nothing could be further from the facts."

"The eighteenth amendment is today the law of the land and no one suggests, least of all, the legislature of this state or myself, that it should be violated. None the less, the history of the way this amendment was ratified in the state of New York is illuminating as reflecting the widespread public opinion of New York."

"If prohibition and the Volstead act are the all-important issues that you claim them to be, it is evident that a majority of all the people in the state of New York favor a rational amendment to the Volstead act that will permit the use of beer and light wines of a small alcoholic content which are, in fact, non-intoxicating beverages."

"Let us for a moment discuss the language of the eighteenth amendment. Surely you do not contend that the eighteenth amendment prohibits the sale of alcoholic drinks. It does prohibit the sale of intoxicating drinks for beverage purposes. Therefore, the question naturally arises what intoxicates? A great many doctors of unquestionable standing in our community have testified that larger beer with an alcoholic content of 2.75 per cent is not intoxicating."

"I cannot agree with you that this whole controversy is a question of law enforcement. That does not enter into it. Nothing in the Democratic platform, nothing in my message to the legislature, nothing in any public utterance that I ever made, anywhere, either inside or outside of the state of New York, indicates the slightest suggestion against the enforcement of existing law. On the contrary, we specifically suggest the amendment of existing law. Certainly that is the right of a state as it is the right of an individual. If, as you say, congress will respect the overwhelming conviction of the people, certainly that state whose history indicates that her people favor beer and wine, has the right to express its opinion."

"We do not ask laxity in enforcement. We ask for a reasonable congressional interpretation of what constitutes an intoxicating beverage. I cannot speak for other states. I can answer for your question about the decrease of lawlessness, but I can speak for the state of New York. And when the Democratic party in its platform said that the Volstead act resulted in widespread contempt and violation of the law, as far as the state of New York is concerned, that is true."

"We have had illegal traffic in liquors and official corruption. The latter is clearly proven by the brevity of the official life of many of those who represent the government. In the enforcement of the Volstead act and their summary removal or transfer from this district is usually under the shadow of suspicion. The moving pictures depicting the weekly news, show a fleet of rum boats lying outside of the three mile limit. The smuggling of whiskey across the Canadian border has become a notorious abuse."

"People who for years were used to a harmless glass of beer, have been put upon a whiskey diet. The federal and the state government with all their power are unable to stop the abuse. It is a matter of common knowledge that in a state as big as New York, the police force required for proper enforcement would be entirely beyond the means of the people."

"I am impressed by the figures that you give of the vote in your own state on 2.75 per cent beer as well as the vote of the states of Michigan and California. Why not settle the question for all time and provide for that vote in every state, with congress fixing 2.75 per cent as a maximum alcoholic content, and allowing the popular vote to fix the minimum? That surely is Democratic government. It is the voice of the people themselves and if that is not the essence of democracy, then we had better turn the key in the door and go out of business."

VERDICT OF $685 FOR HALLENBECK

For Poles Erected For O'Connor—Mrs. Graynosky Sues for Broken Ribs Which She Says Were Caused by Fence Post in Hands of Spring Glen Rabbi and Storekeeper.

A verdict in favor of plaintiff and against defendant for $685 and interest from April 22, 1922, was returned by the jury which heard the evidence in the action by Lewis J. Hallenbeck against Steve O'Connor, which was tried in supreme court last week. Hallenbeck sought to recover this amount which he claimed was due him as a balance for work done in erecting certain poles for Mr. O'Connor when the Pine Hill electric light plant was built by Mr. O'Connor. John W. Eckert appeared for plaintiff and Edward Menzel for defendant. The usual motion to set aside the verdict was denied by the court and thirty days given in which to file an appeal and if an appeal is taken thirty days to make a case. Isidore Sampson appeared for defendant's attorney and made the motion in his behalf.

When supreme court convened Monday afternoon after the week end recess an assault action was taken up. Mrs. Ray Graynosky, who resides in the summer at Spring Glen in the town of Wawarsing where she conducts a small boarding business, seeks to recover $2,000 for an alleged assault which she claims was committed by Esler Jaffe who conducts a store at Spring Glen and who is also a rabbi. Jaffe owns a piece of property adjoining the Graynosky place which consists of 15 acres. It was here that the alleged assault took place. Plaintiff claims that defendant assaulted her with a fence post and by so doing broke two ribs and severely injured her. The affair which took place on April 3, 1922, seems to have been over whether plaintiff had built a road over the property of Mr. Jaffe and whether he had a right to remove the poles which had been erected for the purpose of stringing a wire fence.

Mr. Jaffe contends that he owned a fifteen acre field adjoining the property of Mrs. Graynosky and that some time during his absence she caused a quantity of stones and material to be deposited over a twenty foot wide strip of land and had erected fence posts along what was to be a road through the Jaffe property. The road was to lead from a newly constructed boarding house to the main road. He also claims that she had a right of way along the old canal and not over his land.

The trouble started when he came to cut hay from his land and discovered the fence posts. He claims that he attempted to pull them out and the plaintiff ran down from her place and said, "you pull out my posts, I pull your whiskers." Jaffe had long whiskers which he admits could be easily pulled and that after she had attacked him, he resisted. Friends and boarders came from the boarding house and were going to attack Mr. Jaffe according to his view of the case but then Mrs. Graynosky prevented further attacks. He claims that there was no assault on his part.

Mrs. Graynosky claims that Jaffe removed some of the poles and was in the act of removing one near her place when she asked him what he was doing. An argument followed in which she told him her deed and how he to do what she had done and that she was willing to go to the courts and have the matter decided but that Jaffe said he had the law on his side and proceeded to attack her with the fence post. He struck her in the ribs, fracturing two such an extent that she could not attend to her boarding business and had to hire help. She was unable to get about for some time and in September when she went back to Brooklyn she was still under the care of a doctor. Dr. Neal of Ellenville attended her and the last day she was in Ellenville she had been attended by him. Cleon B. Murray appears for plaintiff and LeRoy Lounsberry for defendant.

MICHAEL LEVINE DIED ON MONDAY

Michael Levine of No. 41 Chambers street, who was knocked down by one of the big auto trucks of the board of public works Monday afternoon, died shortly after being admitted to the Kingston City Hospital. The truck was in charge of Patrick Kidney and was loaded with ice which is being removed from the streets. Kidney was backing the truck to the edge of the dock near the former Sleighsborough ferry landing preparatory to dumping the ice into the creek. Levine stepped in back of the truck and was knocked down. At the hospital Dr. Frank A. Johnston examined the injured man and found that he was suffering from internal injuries.

He is survived by a son and a daughter of New York city. Funeral this afternoon from the Stock & Cordis mortuary at 4 o'clock. Interment in Montrose cemetery.

HUDSON RIVER CLEAR OF ICE

River Open Its Entire Length From Albany to New York—Ice Fields Move Out Without Causing Damage or Freshet—Towing Season Opens.

The Hudson river is now open to navigation from Albany to New York. The ice fields moved out without causing any damage or freshet in the river.

The first upriver tow leaves New York city this evening in charge of the Cornell Line tug Washburn with boats for points along the river as far north as Hudson.

Monday afternoon the steamer Storm King of the Catskill Line passed Kingston Point on its way to New York for its first trip of the season.

It is expected that the Saugerties Line will also shortly resume navigation now that the river is open.

The only ice left in the river is floating ice which is not interfering with navigation.

The water in both the Hudson river and Rondout creek is high, but no freshet is anticipated. The creek ice moved out several days ago.

The Central Hudson Line is now maintaining daily steamer service between Kingston and New York with the steamers Poughkeepsie and Newburgh in commission.

NEWBURGH BEATS BEACON: WILL DEBATE K. H. S.
Newburgh Academy's debating team defeated Beacon High School on Saturday evening at the former's hall. The question was one recently selected in a conference in Rutgers College in New Brunswick, N. J.

"Resolved, that in view of the economic distress of Europe, the United States should cancel at least 50 per cent of the war debts of the allies." Newburgh had the affirmative.

As a result of the win Newburgh will debate the local high school next month in the second contest of the championship of its group in the Rutgers Interscholastic Debating League.

19 CIVIL CASES FOR APRIL COUNTY COURT

The calendar of civil cases for the term of Ulster county court to convene at the court house, Monday, April 2, Judge Joseph M. Fowler presiding, has been issued. There are 19 cases. There will be no grand jury in attendance. District Attorney Frederick G. Traver has a number of criminal indictments to bring before the county court during the April term.

ACTION AGAINST O'CONNOR SETTLED

That of Maude Blakeslee Growing Out of Auto Accident Not Brought to Trial—Verdicts in Two Other Actions Total $43,000.

The action brought by Maude Blakeslee against Charles R. O'Connor, of Hobart, former federal prohibition enforcement officer for New York state, which appeared on the supreme court calendar for March, has been settled out of court. Mrs. Blakeslee, who was seriously injured when Mr. O'Connor's automobile ran head on into a group of pedestrians on the Phoenix-Pine Hill road about two miles above Phoenix, received a considerable amount as compensation for her injuries. Two other cases were brought to trial and in both cases verdict for the plaintiff were returned. One action brought in Ulster county for death of Mrs. W. Schelling resulted in a verdict in favor of plaintiff for $9,000. Another action tried in New York resulted in a verdict for $35,000 for plaintiff.

At the time of the accident which happened on August 12, 1921, a number of people were walking along the road just at dusk. The automobile of Mr. O'Connor which was proceeding from Kingston to Hobart was occupied by Mr. O'Connor and a young woman and the chauffeur. The car struck the group of people injuring several, among them Mrs. Blakeslee who resides a short distance from the scene of the accident. She received cuts on her head, her right shoulder, right arm and right ankle were injured and her left hip was cut and in addition she suffered from shock which confined her to the hospital for seven weeks. John W. Eckert appeared for Mrs. Blakeslee and Joseph L. Prager for Mr. O'Connor.

SENATOR GETS BIG BOX OF "DOPE" AS GIFT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, March 27.—Senator John A. Hastings of Brooklyn, is mystified today over the receipt of a clear box containing $2,000 worth of cocaine. He has asked the Albany police to help solve the mystery.

When the senator returned from the capitol to the Tuxedo Hotel early this morning, following a long night session of the upper house of the legislature, he was told there was a package for him at the check room.

Opening the package, he found the cocaine.

The senator expressed the belief that the dope was a "plant" and that someone hoped to get "something on me."

Senator Hastings has been ill several times during the present session. He is the youngest member in the senate and was the first to introduce bills aimed at the Ku Klux Klan.

FRANCE MOURNS MME. BERNHARDT

International Honors to be Paid at Funeral—Although She Earned Millions She Died in Debt and Home May be Attached.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Paris, March 27.—Messages of condolence from all nations poured into Paris today, expressing the world's sorrow over the death of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt—"The Divine Sarah"—who died last night.

The body was embalmed today and placed within a rosewood coffin. In death the face was serene and calm, just as it had been when Sarah passed from life into the Valley of Death.

Maurice Bernhardt, son of the world famous actress, conferred with the leading theatrical men of Paris regarding the funeral. International honors will be paid to Mme. Bernhardt. It is expected that all nations will be represented. It is likely that interment will be made on Friday.

President Millerand and Premier Poincare were among the first to extend their sympathy to members of Mme. Bernhardt's family. They said that they felt a great French citizen and an international force for extending French friendship had passed away.

Abbe Nissier, of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Francois, who administered the last rites and was present when Mme. Bernhardt died, said today he had never seen such a peaceful death.

"It was like going to sleep," said the clergyman. "Her eyes were closed; her features were composed and serene. She was at peace with the world and felt no fear for the future. She was a good woman."

Up to the very last, Mme. Bernhardt insisted that her health was all right and wished to resume her work in moving pictures. She even spoke about another trip to the United States upon her deathbed. She said she knew the time was coming when she would have to leave the stage, but wanted to "make one grand tour before retiring into solitude."

The Theater Sarah Bernhardt, owned by the famous tragedienne, was draped today in deep mourning. It is understood that the leading theaters of Paris will be closed out of respect to Mme. Bernhardt's memory. Leading playwrights and theatrical producers from all parts of Europe have signified their intention of coming to Paris for the funeral. It is likely that a great public funeral service will be held some days after interment is made in order to enable persons in America to come to Paris to attend.

Gabriele d'Annunzio, famous Italian playwright, who was a great admirer of Mme. Bernhardt, probably will write a panegyric.

Mme. Bernhardt, it was announced, would be placed on public view during the afternoon.

Early in the morning a crowd of mourners gathered before the Bernhardt home. It grew to such proportions that policemen had to be called. The gendarmes kept the line in motion. There was a steady stream of taxicabs and limousines bearing flowers. High personages in all walks of life called and left mourning cards.

Morning papers devoted nearly half of the first page to obituaries of Mme. Bernhardt and editorials eulogizing her. The Excelsior gave up its entire first page with a biographical sketch, eulogy and picture.

The Comedie placed a heavy border of black around its first page. Maurice Rostand, son of the famous dramatist, writing in the Matin, said:

"Your death makes us shudder. We had come to believe you could not die. Your smile and genius has tamed the years."

"Mme. Bernhardt was a queen and her realm knew no boundaries," said Edmond Haraucourt. "She stormed the doors of people's hearts and bore the keys to their souls."

The Theater Sarah Bernhardt will be closed until after the funeral. Interment probably will be at Belle Isle, on the bleak Brittany coast.

The moving picture company for which Mme. Bernhardt was working when she was stricken, said that all the important scenes in which she was to appear had been completed.

Paris newspaper criticized the film directors, saying that "moving pictures had hastened Mme. Bernhardt's end."

Mme. Bernhardt died poor and in debt. All the millions she had obtained throughout her brilliant career, were gone, chiefly through bad investments. A group of lawyers representing her creditors, met this morning to discuss whether it was necessary to place shrivelly seals upon the house so as to attach Mme. Bernhardt's belongings after the funeral. Not only was Mme. Bernhardt bankrupt, but her debts were enormous. That was the reason she was so anxious to continue her work in the movies. She was intensely anxious to pay off all her debts. Among the creditors is the manufacturer of an artificial leg of intricate mechanism. Mme. Bernhardt, who was compelled to wear an artificial leg as the result of an amputation, ordered the contrivance, but did not like it and refused to pay for it.

DAUGHERTY'S SON KNEW MISS KING

It is Intimated His Wife Knew All About It—J. Kearsley Mitchell Meets Wife in Private Car at Washington.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, March 27.—The latest development in the murder of beautiful young Dorothy Keenan King, divorcee and pet of the White Light fast set, that Draper Daugherty, only son of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, had been her friend as well as John Kearsley Mitchell, the son-in-law of E. T. Stotesbury, a J. P. Morgan partner, shared public interest today with curiosity as to the identity of the slayer.

The police claim to know the identity of the slayer, but say that they have not got sufficient legal evidence on which to base an arrest.

Draper Daugherty, who is in Atlantic City, does not deny his friendship with Miss King. He said he had been a visitor in her luxurious Fifty-seventh street apartment. A reporter who found Daugherty in Atlantic City, quoted his as saying: "I was a friend of Dorothy King. I knew her well and I liked her. I have been her guest in her apartment at 141 West Fifty-seventh street, in New York. But I had no really intimate association with her."

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 27.—Draper Daugherty, mentioned in connection with the Dorothy King mystery, married Miss Joan Bowers, daughter of former Congressman and Mrs. George M. Bowers, of this city. It is understood here the younger Daughertys were well acquainted with the young cloak model and Mrs. Daugherty's people, when interviewed this morning, intimated that Mrs. Daugherty knew all about it.

Washington, March 27.—For the first time since his name was connected with the Dorothy King murder mystery in New York, John Kearsley Mitchell, Philadelphia millionaire, came face to face this afternoon with his wife, who sped northward on a special train from Palm Beach to meet him.

The meeting took place in E. T. Stotesbury's private car Lynwood, which passed through Washington on the Atlantic coast line.

In order to avoid the scores of newspapermen and photographers who were massed in the Union Station, the train made a special stop for Mitchell to hurry aboard. No one was permitted to enter the car, railroad officials even endeavoring to keep the curious throng away from the train itself.

TWO DEAD IN $300,000 FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Detroit, Mich., March 27.—Two women lost their lives, according to word received at the county building, fifty were carried to safety and 200 others fled out of the building when fire destroyed building E., at the Elmore County Hospital today.

At one o'clock hospital authorities appealed to the Detroit fire department for additional fire apparatus. Five apparatus from Wayne and Dearborn and two companies from Detroit, had already left for the scene. The fifty rescued women were all bedridden. One woman was suffocated and the other was burned to death, the report stated.

The damage at this hour was estimated at more than $300,000.

DISSENSION CONTINUES IN RUHR

One Faction of Germans Harasses Others Who Work With French and French Amass More Fines.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Essen, March 27.—Clara Zetkin, 70-year-old Communist leader, and favorite of the Communists for president of Germany, despite her age and sex, was taken from a train by the French military authorities today. She was released after being questioned. This action was in line with the recent policy of the French to cater to the German Communists.

No effort is made now to prevent Communist meetings. In the meantime the "red wave" grows in the district between Essen and Gelsenkirchen.

Communists are actively organizing throughout the Ruhr. They are forming battalions of what they call "storm troops." Their platform is to have the Germans open negotiations with the French with the view-point of eventual evacuation. However, Chancellor Cuno, in his recent speech at Munich declared the French and Belgians must evacuate before there can be any negotiations at all.

Communist leaders declare that if Berlin waits for the French to get out, "it may take 50 years or so."

Prince Lippe, formerly one of the chief leaders of the German army on the eastern front, who was recently sentenced to jail for helping a German who was working for the French, has been re-sentenced to eight months' imprisonment and to a fine of 500,000,000 marks on the charge of resisting French orders. He was liberated a week ago after friends had paid the original fine imposed upon him.

The French commandant warned this city that if the person guilty of the recent killing of a French soldier is not soon found, an additional fine of 200,000,000 marks will be imposed upon Prince Lippe.

General Dugoutie's headquarters at Dusseldorf announced that "very serious measures" will be taken unless attacks against French troops cease. Hostages were seized after an attempt to shoot a French officer.

The first clash between coal miners and managers was reported from the Concordia Colliery near Oberhausen, where 2,500 workers tore up an agreement between the managers and French. The miners' council had approved the agreement but it was rejected by the workers. After the men refused to accept the agreement, notices were posted saying:

"No work—no pay."

Representatives of the Berlin government then stepped in and promised to pay over if the miners did not work. Whereupon the miners went back to work. The Concordia Colliery is a branch of a Lorraine coal company.

SNYDER ORGANIZES CHURCH FOR DEAF

Former Pastor of Lutheran Church of Redeemer is Busy Organizing Congregation of Deaf Mutes in Philadelphia.

The Delaware Valley Advance, published weekly in Bucks county, Pennsylvania, contains the following account of the recent activities of the Rev. Howard E. Snyder, a former pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer on Wurts street, and now pastor of the Christ Lutheran Church, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pa. The article reads as follows:

The Rev. Howard E. Snyder, an expert in the sign and lip-reading language, is organizing a congregation of Lutheran deaf mutes, the first religious organization of its kind in Philadelphia.

Mr. Snyder conducted his first service for the deaf Sunday afternoon of last week in the parish house of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Communion, 2111 Sansom street. He will conduct services there every Sunday afternoon.

The clergyman is pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, Chestnut Hill, and for the last eighteen months has been an instructor in the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf. It is reported that he plans to resign his pastorate and devote full time to organizing a congregation of deaf mutes.

"My object is to interest the Lutheran people of Philadelphia in the care of their own deaf," Mr. Snyder said. "The services in the Holy Communion Parish house will be conducted in the sign language and by the aural method. It will be the first Lutheran Church of its kind in Philadelphia."

The aural method signifies lip-reading. By pronouncing words slowly, Mr. Snyder can preach a sermon to his congregation. They "read" the words from his lips.

Mr. Snyder is a graduate of Thiel College, Greenville, O., and of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mount Airy. His first pastorate was at Kingston, N. Y. Later he was pastor of the University Church at Madison, Wis., remaining there about five years.

During the war Mr. Snyder was enlisted as chaplain and saw service with the Eighty-sixth Division in Northern France. He was also stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Station. He was called to the pastorate of Christ Church, Chestnut Hill, in 1920.

If you are a constipation victim you need Bran that is ALL BRAN

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krum-bled, is so delicious and inviting that thousands of families use it constantly to make enticing bakery products, such as bran muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, etc.; they eat it as a cereal, and many sprinkle it on their favorite cereal, its nut-like flavor having a fine appeal.

Many more thousands of people eat Kellogg's Bran every day of their lives because it has permanently relieved them of constipation and the dangers of dreaded diseases that constipation leads to. If you are suffering with constipation you need ALL BRAN—Kellogg's Bran—with its permanent corrective qualities. Foods that are part bran can never give the desired relief because they do not contain sufficient of the elements that Kellogg's Bran naturally contains.

When you know that constipation leads directly to Bright's disease and other ailments, there is no time to lose in experimenting. Kellogg's Bran, delicious in its patented cooked and krum-bled form, is one of an immediate necessity. If it is eaten regularly (two tablespoons daily) in chronic cases with each meal—it will relieve constipation permanently! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran. It will free you from proprietary pills and cathartics which are as system-racking and almost as dangerous to health as constipation itself!

Serve Kellogg's Bran regularly. Watch the health of your entire family improve. It is wonderful for children. Kellogg recipes are printed on each package. All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krum-bled.

WHAT PART TIME SCHOOL IS DOING

Now Has 275 Pupils Who Are Getting Practical Help Toward Earning Livelihood—Business Men Make Addresses.

Few people realize the work that is being done in the fast-growing part-time school here. In fact it is nothing uncommon to hear someone ask what was going on at the high school on a certain Saturday that there were so many children coming out.

The law requires that all boys and girls between the ages of fourteen and seventeen, who have no high school diploma and who are not attending regular session school, must put in at least four hours a week in a part-time school. In 1925 the age limit will be raised to eighteen years. There are at present some two hundred and seventy-five students attending the part time school, most of whom attend the Saturday session, held at the high school each Saturday morning. For those who cannot get the Saturday morning off, there is a session held on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at School 6. The sessions must be held in the day to meet the requirements of the law, which will not permit the time to be made up in a night school, this to protect the children from unscrupulous employers. The part time school is not even connected with the night school held at the high school.

The main object of the school is the development of good citizens, the secondary object is the teaching of a useful trade. Around these two and with their accomplishment in view, a course is planned that will help the students in the line they want to follow up as a trade. There are three courses for boys and four for girls. The boys' courses consist of wood working and metal working; the girls' of cooking, sewing and millinery. A commercial course is offered for both boys and girls. The fundamentals of this course are given at the school, but the most practice is done by the student at home. They are encouraged to practice typewriting as much as possible at home, and many of them are finding it a very profitable pastime. In addition to these courses there are those of a more cultural nature. Citizenship, English, spelling, hygiene, economics, industrial history, and arithmetic. The school plan is one of applied knowledge, that is, the fundamentals are taught for and through their practical application. For instance, geometry, that is, its most practical parts, is taught in the mechanical drawing classes with the aid of the square and triangle, while the spelling is done through all the courses, only those words that the students find absolutely necessary being taught. English is a part of every class and citizenship is held the chief object in all the work.

The work is not carried out according to a schedule that gives a certain number of minutes to each subject; the work that has the interest in the work that is given. If the students are interested in proper addressing of letters, that work is continued all the period or at least until all thoroughly understand it. The only limit that is made on the periods is the division of the four hours into equal parts for industrial and what we have called "before cultural." The brevity of the hours does not give time for the use of books, so the work taken up in the latter courses is done entirely through discussion. The teacher acts as more of a leader than a teacher, and draws out from the students the answers to the questions. There are fifteen instructors so occupied. The courses follow a plan made out by the officials of the part time schools of the state. The plan is printed in book form, much resembling the note book which some high school and grammar school students use for their work in reading. The topics for discussion are each given the space required. The points subsequent to the main topics are arranged in column form, and the page of the book is ruled off to give room for writing in the answers to the questions. The students take notes on the work and make outlines similar to the printed form, keeping these papers in a portfolio for reference.

The work of the school is interesting. It proved so interesting to one girl, that after she had been excused on account of her age, she asked to be permitted to continue with the work. It is helpful to others as well. The girls in the sewing classes have made a number of dresses for charity which are distributed by Miss Heaney, the attendance officer.

Trouble? Sometimes. There is frequently some boy or girl who would prefer to stay away; once in a while there is someone who prefers to come to school and then play; very seldom there is someone who finds the school is too elementary for him and starts a rumpus. These little difficulties are settled by Principal Robert J. Service and Miss Heaney. Continued truancy or unruliness is rewarded by a visit to the city judge for a private hearing. If a second visit to the judge is found necessary, it comes up in regular court, and further trouble brings expulsion from the school with the forfeit of the right to work the penalty. The law requires that the young people must attend school or no employer may hire them, so that they are checked up very effectively.

The regular school work is supplemented by talks given by business men from this district. So far they have heard the following topics discussed: "Savings and Loan Associations," by Arthur Connolly, "State work in bank examining, and how it protects the individual," by Russell Clayton, of the New York State National Bank, "The Postal Department and Postal Savings," by Postmaster W. C. DeWitt, Saturday morning they were addressed by Superintendent Daubler of the Kingston Branch of the Prudential Insurance Company, on the different kinds of insurance, the costs, the advantages, how the laws protect the insured, and other points of interest on the subject. These all were talks in connection with a thrift campaign the school officials are carrying on with the purpose of presenting the wise ways of spending and saving money. Besides these talks on thrift, Dr. B. M. Kaplan gave an address on Lincoln, and Secretary Coe, of the Chamber of Commerce, told of his organization, its work and the benefits of its work to the city. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company sent a number of health booklets which were distributed among the students and are now being used in connection with the course in hygiene.

The system used in the school is having good effects. The attention to the work, the respect shown the teachers and the interest are highly impressive. The school is proving that the working youth deserve some help, and that they will make good if given the chance for some preparation.

The foreword to the plan book used in the school:

"The large number of children leaving school at an early age to seek employment constitutes an important division of a community's population. School and city officials are now facing the problem of social adjustment of these young people."

"The purpose of a part-time class is to fix definite objectives in the minds of the working boys and girls, to equip them with a sounder basis of economic reasoning, to teach them the importance of values so their earnings may be invested to the enrichment of their community and themselves, and to create a more wholesome attitude toward community and state."

Objectives.

"The idea that complete individualism is undesirable."

"Appreciation of the wonderful advance civilization is making."

"An appreciation of overhead costs in business."

"An appreciation of the value and use of money."

"An appreciation of the factors that enter into success and failure."

"A better understanding of how to find employment."

"A better understanding of occupations in general."

"An appreciation of the effects of accidents."

"A working knowledge of fire prevention."

"An understanding of the elements of contentment."

"A basis for analyzing of overhead leisure time."

"A knowledge of what care the body requires."

"Knowledge of minimum first aid equipment."

"The required minimum knowledge of our taxation system."

"The required minimum knowledge of our public and semi-public institutions."

"An understanding of the protection society affords us."

"A better appreciation of what our responsibilities toward a home are."

"A better understanding of the duties of office holders."

By these paragraphs it can be seen that the work of the part-time school is the development of citizens who will be capable of earning their own living, who will know the proper value of sanitation and hygiene, who will appreciate what others have done for them and what they should do for others. In short, the work is the development of useful industrial workers, who know thoroughly their trade and their obligations, without the frills and varnish of a high school or college education. The aim is a sound, honest, human working class, who will help to keep this country the greatest on the globe.

GOODMAN & SUSS CLOTHES

An Undeniable Air of Distinction—

MEN who are notably exacting in matters pertaining to their clothing have placed the seal of approval upon the Traymore.

The easy, slenderizing lines and unobtrusive smartness of this two-button model are founded on the canons of good taste, while unstinted comfort and serviceability are represented by the "23 Point Hand-Tailored" label.

The Traymore is but one of many distinctive Goodman & Suss hand-tailored models, so varied in style that you may easily find the type best suited to your individuality.

PEASANT LINES ARE LIKED

Aim is to Get Away From Hard Tailored Effects—Milady Has Stepped Into Unrestricted Area of Self-Expression.

You know perfectly that longing which comes upon you at this season of the year, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, for more clothes or for, at least, one new outfit—something that is fresh and inspiring and out of the beaten track. They can talk all they please about women coming down to more uniform dress. After all that particular way of expression is not a part of their natures. They long, by instinct, for a change and if fashion is not presenting something for their gaze then they go out and hunt with all their might for it.

At this particular season there seems to be a decided tendency toward the brilliantly colorful things—those that shine out on the streets and in the restaurants. Something perhaps gathered from oriental craftsmanship or from the embroidered and woven designs of the peasants of various countries. Women are becoming quite fearless about wearing, upon the streets, these costumes which are not afraid to show bright tones in their making, and a more or less informal cut and construction about the way they are made. They flop into all sorts of peasant lines and they get away from the hard tailored effects which have obsessed us in the past. They are, in fact, a combination of all those lines and phases which we women love most and in which we are supremely happy, once we decide to adopt them as our own style.

We started out with the jacket and the separate skirt. We were a little dubious at the outset, but we have come more and more into that style of expression until we have found ourselves quite miraculously attuned to the thing that it represents. We have lost our fear of the bizarre. We have stepped into an unrestricted area of self-expression.

Taking on New Life. Some women are not aware of the fact that they can never really express themselves in browns and dark blues that are totally unadorned. In donning those colors they are merely suppressing their more vivid selves and, when they do actually decide to come out in do not have enough judgment left to realize that the startling quality of the colorful embroideries and patterns are something of a force in the world. Else they would not be raising so great an alarm because of their own startled natures.

It is a good thing to take the more vivid styles and the more eye-opening colors in a more or less easy frame of mind. You do not have to wear them, if you do not wish to, but you might as well accept them as a permanent force in the realm of dress. So many women like them that it is impossible to say they will not last. The evidences are all to the contrary. Everything looks as though they will "carry on."

On Background of Blue. A coat that is made of one of those bright new all-over embroideries that have taken the world of fashion by storm, happens to be done on a background of darkest blue, over which are imposed colored threads, ranging through the shades of purple, green, red and yellow—anything, in fact, that helps the brilliancy of the foundation to show to its best advantage, and that makes of the coat the most colorful of affairs. The fact is that it is made of the same material as the coat. The effect of the whole is of some very gorgeous antique stuff that happens to have been made or woven but yesterday by modern artists who recognize the value of the antique designs and who know enough to incorporate them into the display of modern fashions.

The coat has a short sort of a poplin. They either are made in this manner or they are made to end at a long waistline where they more or less drape about the hips and retain that blousiness of their upper sections which is so necessary a line when it comes to the latest fashions.

But, with these shorter jackets, there is always a skirt of some plain material and while one cannot say that all of the skirts are plaited, still so many of them are fashioned in this way that they throw the plainer skirts quite into the minority. There are side plaited skirts done in the very narrowest of widths. There are those which are pressed in wider sections. And there are also those which are arranged in accordion plaits so that they will take up as little stuff as possible and fit themselves more elegantly to the wider varieties of hip-lines. But, after all, the fact remains that the plaited skirts are more graceful looking with short coats than are most of the plain skirts, unless they are posed on the very slimmest and most perfect of figures.

Sweaters of Angora Wool.

The young things are wearing sweaters of fuzzy angora wool that rival the short coats for their display of color and brilliancy of effect. They are adorned, or the more lavish of them are, with embroidered bands which bring them into the limelight where these colorful fashions are concerned. One of them is knitted from a light tan wool—almost a cream color, in fact, and then the hand about the neckline, as well as the wide, tight belt, are embroidered on a knitted foundation with all the bright colored wools known to fashion.

The hat worn with this sweater is one of those blocked felt ones which are leading the hat fashions of the moment. There must be upon it some bow or rosette of ribbon fashioned in picturesque manner, for the felt hat, just now, is nothing at all in fashion unless it is trimmed with ribbon in some representation or other. This one, for example, is of gray in the same tone as the sweater, and it is trimmed with a large rosette of satin ribbon in a darker tone of the same color. Thereby it leaves to the embroidery on the sweater that exploitation of color which tunes in with the modern style and fastens the motifs of decoration at the points where they will be most appreciated.

The separate dress that is made over loose and flowing lines combined with the coat, the general construction of which is in the same manner, is another of the styles which promises to have a great effect upon these fashions for spring which are destined to be accepted.

A combination of this sort is made up of a frock of printed silk done in two shades of brown, the background being of the lightest of brown tones and the flaming being of quite the darkest. There is then a wide border of cream net edged by cream lace in a very narrow lace of the same tone.

CONFIRMATION AT SPRING ST. CHURCH

A large congregation was assembled in the Spring Street Lutheran Church Sunday morning to witness the confirmation of the following children: Edna S. Britt, Minnie M. Kiraly, Wilhelm H. Lieske, John Tomco, George J. Diehl, Raymond W. Otto, Gertrude F. Liebig, Julia K. Schupp, Marie A. Brandt, Harry F. Marks, Walter W. Schussler, Madeline M. Hafer, Olga H. Scholl, Fred W. Bruhn, Edward R. Krueger, Beatrice Gehrt, George J. Will, Carl L. Fuchale, August H. Albright, Charles J. Heldon, Henry G. Diehl, Agnes M. Van Demark, Elsie Schussler, Charles A. Bowers, Oswald F. Pietz.

The church was beautifully decorated and the service solemn and inspiring. The Rev. A. Schmidt took for his text Matthew 5, 23, delivered the following impressive sermon:

Palm Sunday has come and with it the day of confirmation. The gospel for today records Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem. It was a momentous occasion. The great and enthusiastic multitudes spread palm branches before our Lord, and with them decorated the little animal on which He rode. That is why the day is called Palm Sunday. As early as the fifth century the feast of palms was observed in the church. The supreme thought of Palm Sunday is: "Christ is King."

Rejoice the Lord is King.
Your Lord and King adore;
Mortals, give thanks and sing
And triumph evermore:
Lift up your heart, lift up your voice.

Rejoice, again I say, rejoice.

When the triumphal procession reached Jerusalem and entered the temple the children joined the multitudes in praising and shouting: "Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest!" That the children were praising the Lord in the temple and that their adoration was most acceptable to Him that is why the church selected Palm Sunday as confirmation day.

We have assembled this morning for a holy and solemn celebration. These children whom God, our heavenly Father, in His divine mercy accepted as His children in holy baptism, intend to seal their baptismal covenant, to make a profession of faith, and to vow to be faithful to the Lord and His church. And then they shall receive the blessing of the church.

Palm Sunday is a great day not for the children only but for us all. It is an outstanding day in the memories of young and old people. Many think this morning of the day when they knelt at the altar and were confirmed. May every one of them be able to say: "I have been true and faithful to the Lord and to the church of my fathers and my own."

It may be said that Palm Sunday has become the favorite day of the congregation. On this day there is an unusual large number of people in church. This may be explained by the fact that the service deals with the children to be confirmed. And there is scarcely a service in the year when the hearts are so much moved and like a mellow soil as at the confirmation service.

In this earnest and solemn hour I would like to say many things to these children and to all who are present, but I have to be brief. Referring to our text, "And when he was entering into a ship, his disciples followed him" let me talk to you about: "The Voyage of Life."

Life is sometimes spoken of as a journey, and sometimes as a voyage. Our lives are like little ships on the sea of time, where there is plenty of storm and danger. There are all kinds of storms, and the ship of life is often mightily tossed by the waves. If any one expects to sail on the sea of time and to reach the happy land without encountering storms and troubles of one sort or another, he will be greatly disappointed. And being a Christian will not exempt from these storms. Very often just Christ's followers meet with the most violent storms. It was so with the disciples that followed Jesus into the ship at the sea of Galilee. They were caught in a violent tempest.

These children here in our midst are today like a fleet of little ships about to set sail on a voyage. How many of them will reach the beautiful shore of heaven? O may they not lose their way on the dangerous sea. Our prayers and good wishes accompany them.

And now whom must we have on board as we start out on the voyage of life? We require a captain; someone on board to control our lives and guide us on our path and past the dangerous places; someone on whom we can rely.

The great matter is to have Jesus with us in our voyage over the troubled sea. Without Him no ship can outweather the storms or land safely on the further shore. We may think we can make it in our own strength and wisdom, but we soon shall find how helpless we are. In our days many undertake to make crafts of their own and venture upon them without Christ. But they will find out too late what misadventures they have made. Without Christ our life will be shipwrecked. With Him in our voyage we will be able to weather all the storms and He will bring us to the haven of our desire. Christ has never lost a single life that has been committed to His care. We must believe that He is able and willing to bring us safely through this earthly life.

Another thing that every ship needs and carries is a chart, or map. A ship chart contains a vast amount of information about the sea, points out the dangerous places and shows the proper courses for entering ports and channels. The chart is the sailor's safe guide.

We, too, must have a chart on the voyage of life. That chart is the Bible—the inspired Word of God. The Bible contains all the information and directions we need on our life's voyage. The purpose of the Bible is to make us wise, to teach us wisdom, true wisdom, the highest attainable wisdom, the wisdom and knowledge of salvation.

There are many dangerous places on the ocean we have to cross, but if we sail according to directions given in God's book we shall steer clear of them all. No person was ever lost on the sea of life who followed its directions.

But how can we take God's Book on board as our chart? We can take it on board by getting into our mind and heart what it teaches. The Psalmist said: "Thy word have I hid in mine heart that I might not sin against Thee." and "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." The wisest and most learned, the most pious and best men have clung to the Word of God, have walked in its light and finally found a happy end through it. They had the chart on board. Make sure to carry it too.

With God in your heart, His Word in your hand
Well shall you fare on water and land.

When a traveler sets out upon a journey, he must know something about the aim or end of his journey. Do we know what the aim and end is of our life's journey? What our destination is? St. Paul says: "For here we have no continuing city, but we seek one to come."

Before a vessel sets sail it must be decided where she is to sail to. It would never do for an ocean liner to wander aimlessly about the ocean in the hope that one day she would reach some port. The destination must be arranged and the ship steered to it.

It is important for us to settle at once where we would like to land at the end of our voyage. O, my friends, would we not like to sail to the heavenly shores? Would we not like to reach:

That beautiful land
The far-away home of the soul,
Where no storms overbeat the glittering strand,
While the years of eternity roll.

Let us fix our eyes upon that goal. Thither let our aspirations and efforts be directed throughout our life. Let us ask Christ our Lord to come into our ship today and He will bring us safely to the other shores. May we all reach the heavenly home. God grant that none of us may then be missing.

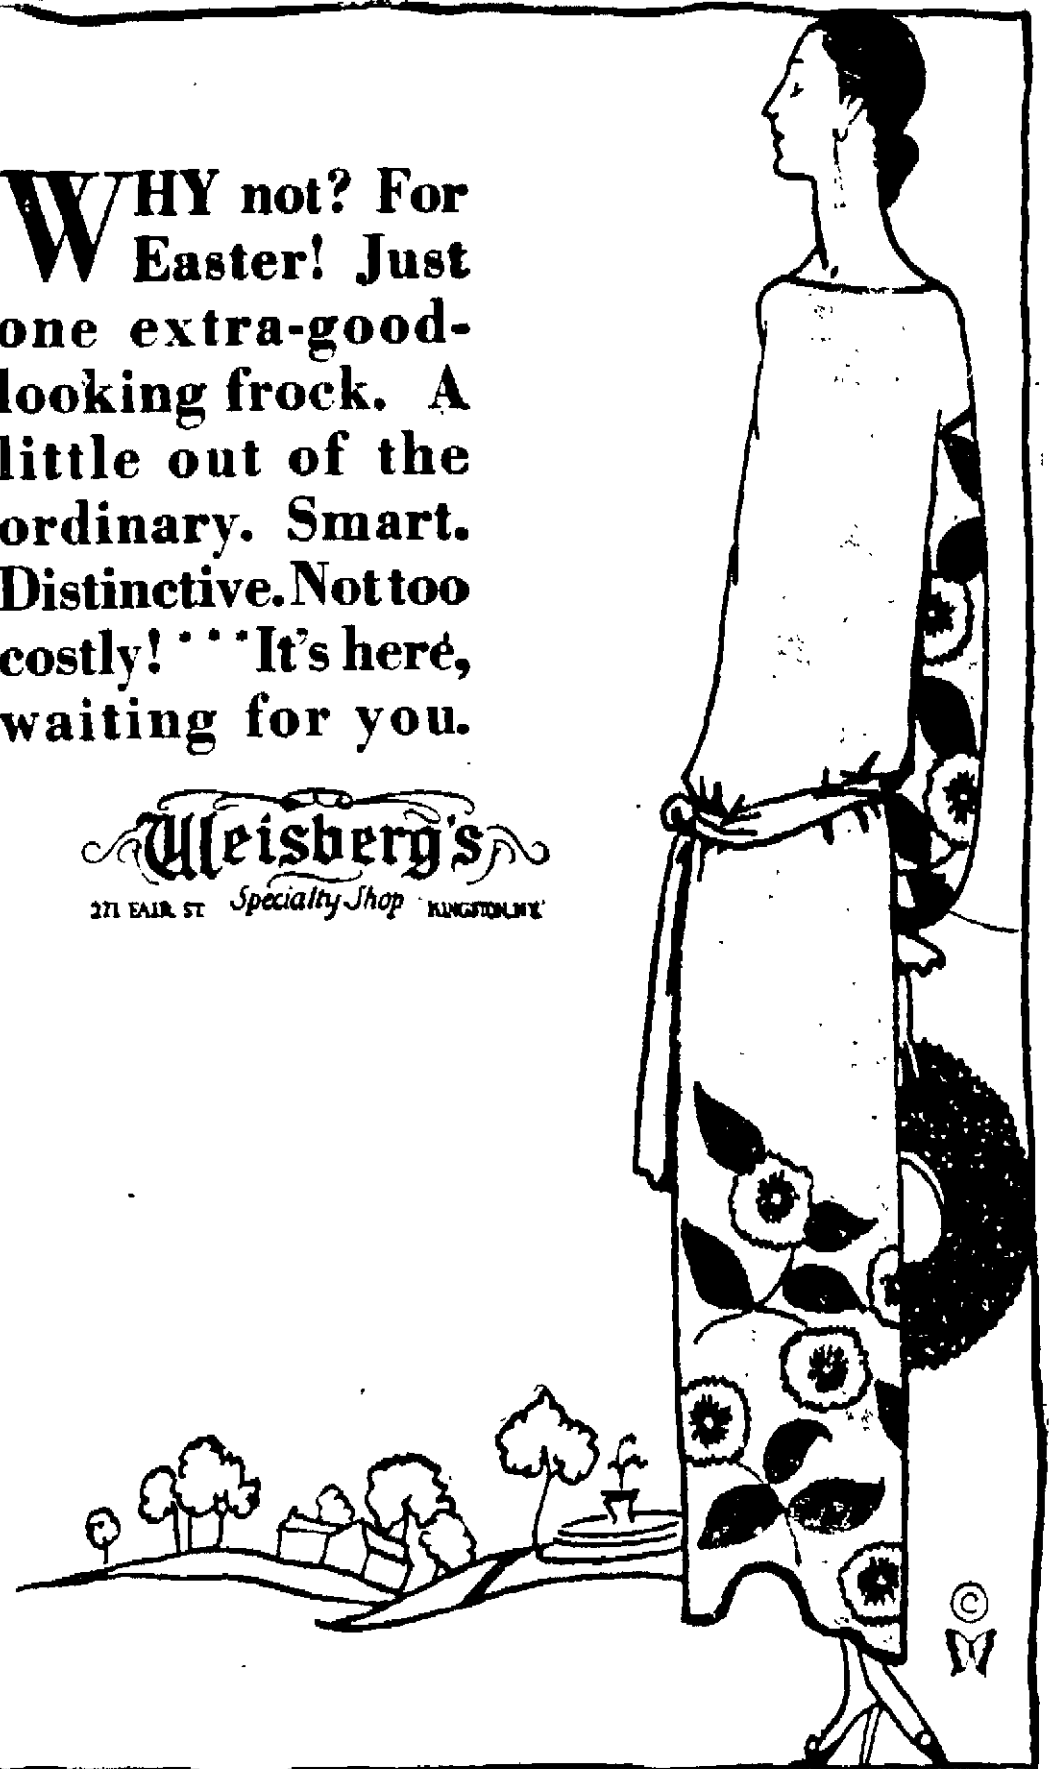

The Sporting Instinct.
"Jones is quite a sportsman, isn't he?" asked Brown. "Indeed, he is," replied Smith. "He has the true sportsman's instincts, too. Yesterday he ran down a blind cripple while motor-ing and he seemed downright sorry that the fellow didn't try to get out of the way."

HEXATHLON ENDS WITH LOCAL "Y" IN LINE FOR HIGH HONORS

Total of 8,247 Points Scored by Honor Men, 1,916 More Than Last Year—High Men are A. Roosa and C. Ford—Scores of Other Contestants.

The hexathlon for the "Y" boys was finished last Saturday, and the records have been gone over and the honor men listed. The results look good for the local organization. In all there were 8,247 points scored by these honor men. Last year's total was 7,678, and that of the previous year 6,321. The score this year represents an increase of 1,916 points over that of two years ago, and 562 over that of last year. This is an excellent showing for the boys in this year's contest, and gives the Kingston "Y" a good chance for first place in the state standing.
Last year, through a mistake in the records, the local association was put in Class A, instead of Class C, the classes being arranged according to the membership of the association. Naturally, the Kingston
"Y" did not make such a good showing against others out of its class;
but this year the records have been straightened out, and the local institution is in its proper class. All the high honor men will be given buttons, according to the number of points scored in the hexathlon. For all those scoring 600 or more points a gold button, for all scoring 500 a silver, and for all scoring 400 a bronze. In this also there is a considerable increase over last year.
Twenty-nine buttons were awarded last year, 8 silver and 21 bronze.
This year there are the same number to be awarded, but there are 2 gold, 10 silver, and 17 bronze, which indicates better individual work.
Mr. Miller, the physical director, is well pleased with the results, and expects to see Kingston one of the first three in state standing. He says that if Kingston falls down, it will be due to the scores of the third rate men, but believes that the scores of the first and second rate men will raise the standing considerably.

Following is the total number of points scored by the honor men, those winning first, second and third places in each event, and in all events:

KINGSTON-CELTIC GAME NEARING

Title of World's Professional Basketball Champions at Stake Here
April 6—Tickets Going Fast.

Today at the armory Mickey Huston placed on sale 250 more tickets for reserved seats for the Kingston-Celtic game. These reserved seat tickets now placed on sale take in the bleachers on the uptown side of the drill shed.

To say that this game is creating some action in basketball circles along the Hudson is not giving it full justice, for newspapers in these cities are giving much space to the coming event. The wearers of the Shamrock for the past few years have had it very easy, almost all their own way, but this year it is different. Kingston, undisputed champions of the New York State League, featuring Benny Borgman, the leading scorer, have taken much more of a prominent place in the sport than the Celtics.

The tickets have been going very fast at the armory, which is the cause of the additional reserved seats being placed on sale. Out of town enthusiasts have been very conspicuous in buying lately. Monday a very large order was received from Tannersville.

The Original Celtics claim to be the world's professional basketball champions. Kingston at present is on an even footing with the Shamrock aggregation and the result of the game here Friday evening, April 6, will point out the world's champions.

Each team has won two games. On November 19 the local aggregation set basketball circles agog with a one-point victory over the Celtics at Union Hill, N. J. The next games played between these teams was a double header on Sunday, December 10, the afternoon game being played at Union Hill, N. J. and going to Kingston 22 to 21. The evening game was played at Madison Square Garden and was won by the Celtics 39 to 24.

On the following evening the Celtics journeyed to this city and beat the local representatives by 19 to 13.
This was Kingston's first defeat of the season on the local court.
Ever since this contest the rubber game has been sought and looked forward to by the basketball world.

As stated some time ago there will be no preference in handing out the tickets, first come, first served. All those who have been holding season tickets will be given the opportunity of securing the same seats if they call for them on time. To relieve the congestion which usually accompanies a game of this kind, the side door of the armory will be opened to admit those who obtained tickets before the night of the struggle.

ARMORY

Ashokan, March 24.—The children of Mr. and Mrs. John Brooks tendered them a surprise party at their home on Saturday night. A goodly number of neighbors and friends attended and spent a most enjoyable evening visiting and playing games, after which a bountiful

MESSAGE ON AGRICULTURE

Smith Asks Legislature to Abolish Farms and Markets Council and Let Governor Name Commissioner of Agriculture.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, March 27.—After carefully studying the agricultural problems of the state, Governor Smith has submitted a special message on the subject to the legislature. He reiterates the recommendation he made in his annual message that the Council of Farms and Markets in the Agricultural Department be abolished and that the appointment of an agricultural commissioner be transferred to the governor.

At the very outset of his message the governor takes the agriculture interests to task in the following manner:

"Somehow or other the agricultural interests of the state have always seemed to believe that the functioning of the agriculture department belongs peculiarly and particularly to them, and persuaded the legislature that there should be established over the department a agency similar to that which exists in the department of education."

"As a result, a Council of Farms and Markets was created, composed of 11 members elected by the legislature and representing the nine judicial districts of the state. This council has administrative and executive functions. The attempt to keep all agriculture interests strictly under the control of their own representatives is almost like the establishment of an agricultural Soviet."

"The governor said he could readily point out many shortcomings of the department and suggest remedies, but that he would not take any responsibility for the department so long as the agriculture council of farms and markets was not responsible to him."

"Before any progressive step can be taken or any policy initiated looking toward the improvement of the condition of the producers or consumer," the governor said, "responsibility should be centered in this department as it is in every other department of the state, with the exception of the Education department—in the Executive."

"The Council of Farms and Markets should be abolished or retained in advisory capacity only, and the governor should appoint and remove, by and with the consent of the senate, the Commissioner of Farms and Markets."

A bill sponsored by Senator Straus, New York City Democrat, which would abolish the council of farms and markets, already has passed the senate. It is generally believed the Straus measure will be killed by the Republicans in the lower house.

Services at Albany Avenue Church.

Services will be held at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. The hour is half past seven. The prayer and covenant meeting comes on Thursday evening, and the program will include a special musical number. The Good Friday service on Friday evening will have the music rendered by the church choir and an appropriate message will be given by the pastor. Easter Sunday will be a rally day for the entire church and congregation, and a great program is being arranged. An augmented choir under the direction of Mrs. Asenath Hayes will render an unusual selection of fine Easter music. The morning service will be especially attractive and will include one or two features that will not be announced in advance. The communion will follow the morning service, at which time new members will be given the hand of Christian fellowship. The Sunday evening service will also be a great occasion and will have a strong musical program. Vesper services have been discontinued and henceforth the Sunday evening service will be held, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Japan Rejects China's Request.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Tokyo, March 27.—China's second demand for abrogation of the "twenty-one" demands, treaties, will go back unconsidered. A note accompanying the return of the Chinese plea will state the matter is a closed issue. This was the official statement today upon receipt of word that Peking was dispatching a second request for reconsideration of the treaties.

UNNIGAN BILL PASSES SENATE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 27.—The Unnigan bill, repealing the Mullock-Gage prohibition enforcement law, passed the senate this afternoon, 80-14.

The entire Democratic majority voted for the bill, with two Republican Senators Robinson of Merik and Whitley of Rochester.

CHARGE "BILL" HART IS HER CHILD'S FATHER

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Los Angeles, March 27.—William Hart, famous "two-gun man" of movies, accused of being the father of a boy born out of wedlock to a teacher in a fashionable girls' school in Boston, will fight the accusation which, it is charged, will be in the divorce action soon to be filed by Winifred Weflover, the mother of Bill Hart, Jr., it was reported today.

The famous screen star went into conference with his attorneys today, and was said to make no public statement until after the conference. The name of the woman who accuses the actor, is kept secret.

PUCKEESIE PLAYERS SEEK BERTHS ELSEWHERE

The Poughkeepsie Evening Star Monday's issue states that four Poughkeepsie ball players have been with the Astor team of Rhinecliff, Russell, Dewey, Esterly and Green; also that other players are expected to sign up with out of town teams in the near future.

It is stated that the players are looking for a change of scene and that the fans become abusive, singing and shouting instead of cheering something in the basket, are the causes for the players seeking positions on teams in other localities.

SEMBLY PASSES APPROPRIATION BILL

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, March 27.—The assembly today unanimously passed the annual appropriation bill calling for a total expenditure of $116,000,000 for the state's money.

Assemblyman Steinberg, Republican of New York, said he hesitated to vote for the bill because it called for $14,000,000 in excess of last year. Minority Leader Donohue retorted that the increase was necessary "put the various state departments on a business basis."

UGS "LEAK" FROM ARMY WAREHOUSES.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 27.—Drug dealers are securing vast quantities of narcotics illicitly from army warehouses, Col. L. G. Nutt, secretary of the federal narcotic control and declared today at a conference between drug manufacturers and federal authorities.

Enormous supplies of drugs unfit for legitimate use, Nutt revealed, are leaking from these warehouses to the hands of a ring of dope peddlers.

UGHKEEPSIE WATCHED FOR KING SLAYER.

A possible hiding place of the slayer of Dorothy Keenan King of New York city is thought to be in Poughkeepsie. Miss King and a party were in Poughkeepsie and at Rhinecliff, Ulster county, during the races last year. Harry Clinton, former executive of the Flat factory Poughkeepsie, was questioned by police in connection with the slaying of Miss King, visited the agency in New York and was out to buy a car.

Eternal Law Seen in the Case of Egypt.

Who Thought That Death Could Be Conquered Overcome Only by the Teachings of the Savior.

Egypt, the rich spawning bed of all the infamies and all the magnificences of the first epoch, that African India, where the waves of history broke and died, where but a few years before Pompey and Antony had flanked the dream of empire and of life, this prodigious country, born of water, burned by the sun, covered with the blood of many peoples, inhabited by many animal gods, this country, paradoxical and supernatural, was by contrast the predestined asylum for the fugitive.

The wealth of Egypt was in mud, in the rich make-breeding mud which the Nile rolled out each year upon the desert. Death was the obsession of Egypt. The soft, prosperous people of Egypt would not accept death, denied death, thought they could conquer death with graven images, with embalmings, with sculptured representation of flesh-and-blood bodies. The rich, portly Egyptian, son of mud, adorer of the sacred bull, and the dog-headed god, could not resign himself to dying. He manufactured for his second life immense necropolis full of bandaged and perfumed mummies, of images of wood and marble, and raised up pyramids over his corpse, as if stone and mortar might save them from decay.

When Jesus could speak He was to pronounce the verdict against Egypt; the Egypt which is not only on the banks of the Nile, the Egypt which has not yet disappeared from the face of the earth along with its kings, its sparrows hawks and its serpents. Christ was to give the final and eternal answer to the terror of the Egyptians. He was to condemn the wealth which comes from mud and all the fetiches of the pot-bellied river dwellers of the Nile, and He was to conquer death without sculptured tombs, without mortuary kingdoms, without statues of granite and basalt. His victory over death was won by teaching that sin is greedier than worms and that spiritual purity is the only aromatic which preserves from decay.

The worshippers of mud and animals, the servants of riches and the beast, could not save themselves. Their tombs, high as mountains though they be, decked out like queens' palaces, white and fair to see as those of the Pharaohs, guard only ashes, dust returning to dust, even as the dead bodies of animals. Death cannot be conquered by copying life in wood and stone. Stone crumbles away and turns to dust, wood rots and turns to dust, and both of them are mud—eternal mud.—From the Life of Christ by Giovanni Papini.

Bird-Saving Expedition.

Dr. Alexander Wetmore of the biological survey of the Department of Agriculture, will leave soon for the mid-Pacific at the head of a scientific expedition to explore the islands embraced in the national bird reservation of Hawaii. He will be accompanied by Charles E. Reno of the same bureau and the expedition will start from San Francisco about March 21. The Navy department will co-operate and furnish a 1,000-ton vessel to conduct the party from Honolulu to the various islands in the Hawaiian group.

Plans for the expedition have been perfected by the biological survey with the Bishop museum of Honolulu. The object of the expedition is to make collections and gather information concerning the bird life of the islands and to destroy a large colony of rabbits menacing some of the land birds through the destruction of the scanty vegetation upon which the birds subsist.

The Flapper Knew.

Something had happened. Some one had been injured. A crowd gathered around a fallen man on the sidewalk at Washington and Illinois streets. He writhed and then stiffened, exhibiting the symptoms of a person having an epileptic fit.

"The man is an epileptic," decided a bystander.

"Now, he's a Bulgarian," corrected a flapper, disgustedly, shifting a wad of chewing gum the better for argument.—Indianapolis News.

The Vanishing Farm.

"The Big Town," said Farmer Corn-tassel, "is only 40 miles away."

"That ought to make it easier for you to market the products of your farm."

"I want you to understand that this ain't no farm. This here is suburban real estate."

Question.

"What was you reading?"
"A New York paper. It says the geese are still going south."

"Is that a society item or an ornithological note?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Wesley's Great Work.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, March 27.—Steadiness marked trading at the opening of the stock market today. Steel stocks were in demand, improving fractionally. U. S. Steel opened at 106, a gain of 1/4. Bethlehem Steel advanced 1/4 to 64 1/2 and Republic Steel 1/4 to 60. American Locomotive was unchanged at 133, but American Car and Foundry yielded 1/4 at 179 1/2. Oil stocks opened steady. Producers and Refiners moved up 1/4 to 54 1/2. Pan-American advanced 1/4 to 73 and Royal Dutch was up 1/4 to 54 1/2. California Petroleum was reactionary, declining 1/4 to 103. Tire stocks opened firm. Kelly Springfield improved 1/4 to 58 and U. S. Rubber 1/4 at 61 1/2. Motor stocks were neglected. Studebaker was unchanged at 122.

The market showed some improvement during the forenoon. Steel stocks were firm. U. S. Steel rose 1/4 to 106 1/2. Republic advanced to 60 and Gulf States Steel to 97 1/2. California Petroleum yielded over 2 points to 101 1/2. The tire stocks felt the influence of good buying, Kelly Springfield moving up one point to 58 1/2.

Professionals at various times attempted to depress prices, but strong interests were ready to absorb their offerings at prevailing levels. The market was dull on every reaction. Steel stocks were singled out for leadership, but tire, oil and shipping stocks showed up very well, registering large gains. The market closed strong; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

Y., one sister Mrs. Lillian Palmatier of Highland and one brother, George Frederick of Poughkeepsie. Funeral service at the Presbyterian Church in Highland on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Origin of "Good-by."

The meaning of "good-by," though sometimes erroneously given as "God buy—or redeem—you," is undoubtedly "God be with ye," and as such has been clipped into its modern form.

BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT HEALTHY, REPORTS HOOVER

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 27.—Business improvement in the United States is a "healthy, normal expansion with no color of inflation," Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover declared today, pointing out that there had been no "overstocking" of the market or any production in excess of the normal demand.

BRICK MAKERS HIT BY TAXATION DECISION.

The decision of Supreme Court Justice Thierney of New York city that the law exempting new buildings from taxation is unconstitutional, is crippling work among the brickyards along the Hudson.

Word from neighboring yards is to the effect that already orders have been cancelled. Contracts for millions of dollars' worth of buildings had been given out for the opening of spring, but the coming of the decision at this time caused a cancellation of plans and brick orders.

Brickyards in other cities have also issued statements to the same effect, their contracts being for the New York city market.

PORT CHESTER TAKES TITLE

Port Chester Saturday night won the New York state high school basketball championship by defeating Masten Park of Buffalo, 18 to 14, at Syracuse.

Johnny Burns, the diminutive star of the Hudson valley champions, was the outstanding figure of the game. He shot eight fouls in eight tries, and caged two field baskets, being directly responsible for Masten Park's downfall. For the Buffaloes, Goodwin and Hyde were the leading players.

At the close of the game it was announced that neither Port Chester nor Masten Park would enter the national interscholastic tournament at Chicago. Officials decided that the Chicago trip would be too much of a physical strain on the boys.

SURPRISES AT ELKS' SMOKER

Committee Arranged Program That Received Big Hand—Four Boxing Exhibitions In One Evening.

At the Elks' benefit smoker Monday evening at the home of the local Elks' a record attendance taxed the hall. The program was announced as being one of the best staged there and it proved to afford an evening of pleasure.

John Mack announced the performers and his clear voice coupled with facts made him a perfect announcer. The Imperial Orchestra rendered several popular selections and the audience was unreserved in its plaudits.

Edward Cashin and Louis Mayon were the first introduced as referee and timekeeper respectively. Dewey Van Buren and Ralph Elsworth staged the first bout for four rounds and the boys put up a good exhibition. This match was exceptionally good and being the initial one of the evening the crowd looked forward for a wonderful card and they were not disappointed. Three members of the Colonial Quartet, Messrs. Palen, Deegan and Dolan, rendered several selections, which were very generously applauded and appreciated.

The next bout was between Kid Merante of Phenicia, and Young Pickford. The last mentioned was introduced as having considerable experience in the twenty-four foot square. This bout proved one of the best ever staged in this city. Both young boys exhibited a brand of clever defense seldom put up by amateurs. Clever to the Nth degree they would square off and to get in a tap was some feat. The lads had entirely different styles of fighting and their work was received with a volume of cheers. Merante is a very heavy youngster and those who saw him perform last evening will be expecting to hear of him doing big things in the ring in the near future. Both boys fought hard from the sound of the gong to the finish, but apparently it wasn't a workout for them. It was announced at this time that the next event of the Elks would see these boys together again.

Mr. Nolan next favored with a few songs which were greatly applauded. During intermission P. and D. cigars were freely smoked and obviously greatly enjoyed.

The next bout on the program was between two colored boys from Shaft 7 and announced as the Rock boys' exhibition. Ostrich McHenry and Kid Tyler were the contestants. Tyler was a short stocky built boy and McHenry a powerful fellow. The last lad had a fashion of fighting that is seldom seen. And he concealed a mean left and right. The breeze of one of his swings raised the hair on the guests' heads in the ring side seats. One of the boys was quoted as saying before entering the ring, "that this fellow was not going to barbecue me." Never before in the history of Elks' smokers was a bout so thoroughly enjoyed. Six rounds of this fighting gave the enthusiasts enough thrills, expecting to see a knockout every minute, every one was on the edge of his seat. McHenry had great generalship. At one time he faked being groggy and hung his head. His opponent walked a short distance and the next that followed was a shot from McHenry's glove that brought Tyler to the ropes hazy. The blow couldn't have landed just right, because it carried everything with it, even a part of the shaft. Before the bout terminated McHenry pulled off a number of tricks but they all didn't work and a good time was had by all.

The main event of the evening was between Joe Coffey and Red Featherstone, a six round exhibition. Coffey outboxed Featherstone and used his leading glove to a big advantage, hitting Featherstone at will. Featherstone was strong on the body punches, which carried much steam behind them. The bout was very interesting as some good boxing ability was shown and both boys were very careful both on the defensive and the aggressive.
